Intervention Zone	Regions of Saint Louis and Louga, Departments of Dagana, Saint-Louis and Louga
Description of the Project	The project provides for the creation of 1,605 hectares of new developments and the diversification of agricultural production. This project aims to contribute to achieving food sovereignty by increasing the developed areas, while promoting private entrepreneurship to promote high value-added crops. By facilitating the integration of small producers, the project also addresses the fight against poverty, particularly by improving the incomes of disadvantaged populations and women. The economic benefits will be felt not only through increased agricultural yields, but also through job creation in rural areas, thus supporting local economic development. In addition, improved agricultural infrastructure will contribute to better management of natural resources and resilience to climate challenges.
Expected impact	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ▪ Increase and diversify agro-pastoral production by improving agricultural and pastoral production potential (sedentary or mobile); ▪ Facilitating the integration of young people, women and immigrants into the economic fabric to combat illegal immigration and create jobs;
