Description of the Project	Casamance is an area with high tourist potential: 3rd tourist destination with 85 km of sandy coastline. In Abéné and Kafountine , there is an urban expansion associated with the development of the different sectors affecting the area. In the case of Kafoutine , tourism, fishing, processing industry and mines combine to produce significant attractiveness. In the case of Abéné , it is more about tourist and residential facilities, as well as agricultural development, particularly fruit. Today this area is seriously threatened by coastal erosion.
	The project is made up of several key axes to respond to these challenges: Component A: Sustainable development of tourist destinations. Component B: Support for the creation and growth of local businesses. Component C: Project Management, to ensure effective monitoring and coordination and the success of the various initiatives.
